CHINA'S RED GUARDS

This Week's PICTURE SHOW—AP Newsfeatures.

Chinese schoolchildren (the "Red Scarves") march in demonstration celebrating Mao's doctrines.

Red Guard changes street sign in move to eliminate old concepts.

Last August an "army" of disciplined, khaki-uniformed youths emerged in Red China. These youths, 14 to 18 years old, are known as the Red Guards, and have been referred to as the "shock force of Mao's thinking," or as "Mao's Militant Teen-agers."

The Guards are quasi-military, and their origin is credited to Lin Piao, defense minister and No. 2 man under Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Communist Party. They have been trained, drilled and uniformed by certain divisions of the People's Liberation Army loyal to Mao.

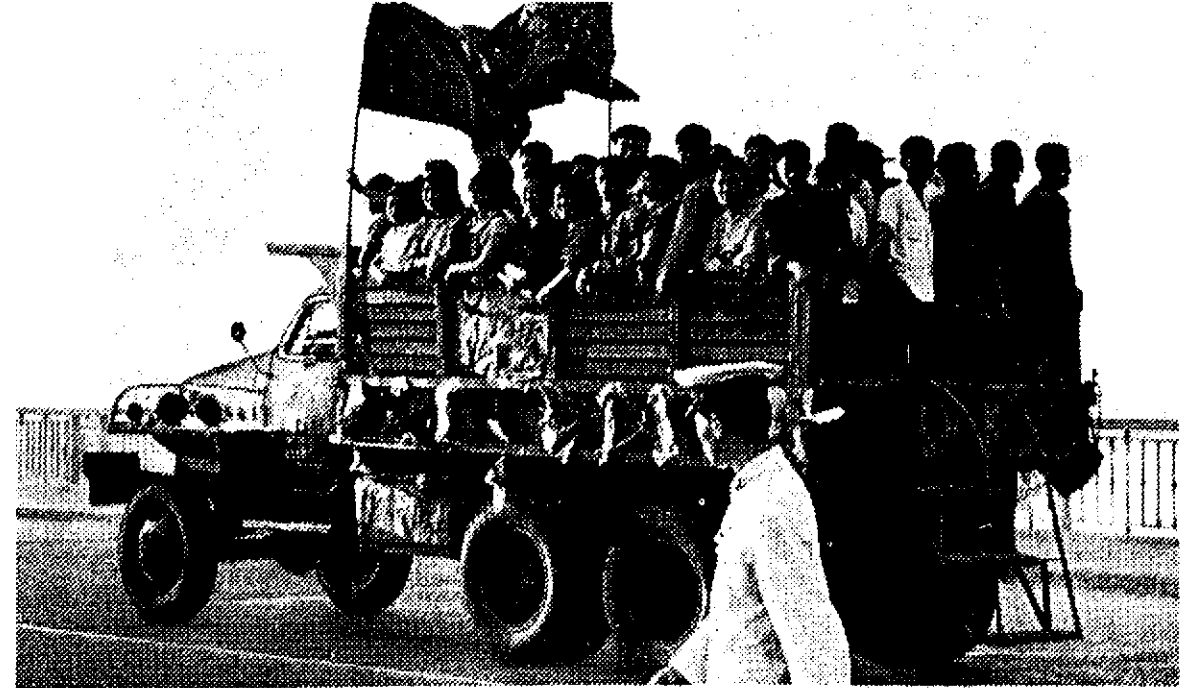

The Red Guards were set up to bypass the sources of strength of the opposition, but the situation in Red China has been confused, to say the least.

Some observers see the Red Guards as Mao's weapon in a deeper-seated, internal power struggle.

China's higher schools, colleges and universities have been closed since last September, while the students learn to carry out Mao's "cultural revolution" at the grass-roots level. They are allowed free transportation to spread the Mao doctrines.

In Nanking, anti-Red Guard forces apparently took over after three days of clashes with the Guards. In the big, south China city of Canton, wall posters publicly assailed Mao. In the capital city of Peking there was turmoil as the Red Guards demonstrated in mammoth rallies. Nearly all Chinese Communist leaders have been denounced. You can't tell the good guys without a program—and there is no program.

The accompanying pictures by Japanese photographers show the Red Guard youth at work.

HELEN HELP US!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

Dear Helen:

Recently I got in a fight with my best friend whom I've known four years. We were terribly mad at each other, so she told her Mom some half-way lies about me. Her parents told mine and now we're not allowed to even look at each other. You see, the way she told her folks, she made it seem that she was a little angel and I was gully of everything. Her folks are mad at me, and my folks are mad at her making me sound so bad; but and my folks are mad at her for we're all over our mad and want to be friends again. Why can't parents understand about teen fights?

We wrote notes saying we were sorry, and boy did I ever get it when my mother and Dad found out! We aren't even able to speak to each other. What can I do? —DESPERATE

Dear Des:

Why don't you both write notes to both sets of parents explaining the true facts and how they were exaggerated? I think they'll soon

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

RADIO AND YOU—1967: That box the sound comes out of and you can listen to in a completely dark room or walking out on the sunny street—the radio—was supposed to disappear in the year 1959, clobbered by television. Who saved radio? You insisted on switching the dials and, as you have in so many other things, started a whole new trend—a regular avalanche of disc jockeys rolling out music (instead of the old soap opera, drama and comedy network fare). So listen to what you caused: More radio sets than ever . . . about 260 million at the end of 1966 . . . mostly home sets, but also transistors and auto radios. You brought back radio and you dominate one part of it—rock 'n' roll stations (uh-huh, beware, surveys show the oldies are tending to sneak a listen to these, too). But you only buy 20 per cent of radios sold, and you listen selectively, by the kind of stuff your local stations dish out and your other interests and the season. For instance, in cool Boston less than half as many teen ears tune in to early morning radio in summer as in winter . . . in tumultuous New York more than 80 per cent do. In windy Chicago you dial before-noon radio 16 times as often in the summer as in the winter . . . while in hot New Orleans you listen to the late afternoon radio only half as much in summer as in winter. So what, if you continue to drive stations and advertisers frantic?—you listen to what you like!

WHAT'S COMING UP NEW IN RADIO? Checks around among big and little wigs in the radio field come up with this answer—not much new . . . In 1967 radio will continue to roll out the beat bigger than ever of those tunes you go for on those stations you tune to. One small sign in the 1967 radio sky: Telephone-in type shows are growing, from a few spots to 67 to 70 per cent of the programs on some stations . . . and new types of the telephone-in show are beaming in . . . Some of these will be baited to lure you to listen.

HOP TO SOME HIP SHOP TO BUY POP: The craze to buy off-beat stuff—clothes and for your room—is getting bigger. For precious possessions, like maybe Victorian undergarments, coats with military insignia or epaulettes, German World War I spiked helmets, bizarre lamps, souvenir and old-fashioned items, the safari usually leads far afield. Here are places YOUTH BEAT has cased recently where you can pan pay dirt and pick up these beloved wear-gear, etc., nuggets. Fourteen-carat are the surplus military stores (for military, hunting, western); a possibility lurks in work clothing stores (some military, but better for picturesque work shirts, pants, hats); the Salvation Army rehabilitates clothes (as well as the homeless men who help put them in shape) and so does Goodwill Industries—both have stores in places coast to coast, with unexpected gems amidst the second-hand litter; also, thrift shops, second-hand shops (and even pawn shops) are worth browsing. Some prime loot turned up in a speedy tour of (mostly Salvation Army and Goodwill) stores with such "rehabilitated" gems as: dresses from the '20s, leather jackets, messes of sweaters, ordinary and wild-stripe shirts, beat up real fur coats (scissor to size), big-piece old-fashioned jewelry (ornamented watches), scrambles of buttons (sorry, non with slogans); for entertainment—records, records, records (all kinds—dirt cheap) . . . and books, books, books (10 cents and up); for your room or any kooky thing—giant old mirrors, wild lamps, junkyards of lampshades, souvenir postcards, big cubes of typewriters (looking like the original office typewriter), and a zany old exercise bicycle. O.K. if you want to poke through it all you can find delicious things, but remember, too . . . there's always grandma's attic.

BUTTON, BUTTON—MORE BUTTONS: A handful more of right up-to-date slogan buttons from the nation's leading beatnik shops "Stamp out Reality," "You Interest Me," "No body for Governor," "Babies Kiss Everybody—Why Can't You?," "I Hate Everybody."

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

simmer down.—H.

Dear Helen:

I have been corresponding with a boy in Service. He writes as if I was the one and only. But—While reading his last letter I noticed the imprint of other words on the paper. After making out the words, I discovered they were from the last page of a letter to another girl. What he had written sure changed my opinion of him!

I want to let him know I won't be writing any more and why, but I don't know how to go about it. Please Help.—H.

Dear E:

Why stop writing? He's just a boy you know—not your special guy and he has as much right to other girl friends as you to other boy friends.

But you might let him know his heavy hand gives him away.—H.

Dear Helen:

When I read the letter about the cats stolen on Halloween night, I decided to tell you what goes on in our neighborhood. There is a group of boys here who go around destroying things just for fun. One of their little games is picking up cats off the street, being very nice to them, then getting rid of them in some way. Can you imagine how horrible it is, finding your pet cat missing the next morning.

How could we stop this?—ANIMAL LOVER

Sunglasses in the Spotlight

By HELEN HENNESSY

Women's Editor

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Sunglasses have become a round-the-clock fashion. Even when the sun goes down they remain perched prettily on the nose, raised rakishly on the brow or tilted tiara-fashion on the head.

Once merely protection against glare, sunglasses have become a fashion item. They add new hue to the face. And with the current emphasis on co-ordinated color in fashion, they're a girl's best way to keep tones in tune from her toes to her nose.

When you don't have the time or inclination to give your eyes the full make-up treatment, sunglasses are the perfect camouflage. They're a cover-up that's practically a cosmetic and needs no cold cream to remove.

Thanks to the variation in frame shaping, many a woman with a receding chin, protruding cheeks or other facial contour problem can alter her looks by slipping on glasses.

YOUR DENTAL HEALTH

Trimming Denture May Relieve Jaw Numbness

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR DR. LAWRENCE:

"My question is: What makes my chin numb? I've just started wearing new dentures and something seems to be wrong with the lower one —Mrs. F. B.

ANSWER — Numbness or anesthesia of chin and lips of denture wearers is not common. We've seen few such cases in recent memory. In all of them, one side only was involved and the lower denture was at fault.

The nerve that supplies sensation to teeth, jaw and lips lies in a canal inside the jaw bone. When natural teeth are present this nerve gives off a branch to each tooth. On cheek side of jaw, on both sides, in premolar areas, there is an opening in the jaw bone, under the gums. A branch of the main nerve emerges from this opening and supplies sensation to chin and lower lip.

Since our bodies are bilaterally symmetrical, this opening appears on both sides of the jaw, nerves coming together and intertwining at midline—like intertwining fingers. Therefore, if the nerve on one side becomes involved, part of the opposite side of lip and chin present similar symptoms.

If dentures fit too tightly in area where the nerve emerges from bone, pressure on the nerve may cause irritation and numbness or some degree of anesthesia in chin and lip. This can easily be relieved by trimming that section of denture that lies over the emerging nerve.

This treatment usually gives relief in a matter of hours. Further relief and comfort may be obtained by application of hot wet packs to affected areas. (Wet towel over hot-water bag.)

There are other causes of numbness of jaws, some of them serious. A tumor anywhere along the patch of the main nerve; injury; pressure of impacted wisdom tooth; "novocain" injection; temporary or permanent numbness following extraction of tooth, if nerve is injured; all are causes that must be considered before correct diagnosis can be made and proper treatment given.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of this paper. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Agency to Use Travel Shows to Promote Vacations in State and Parks Commission

Over half a million prospective tourists will be personally greeted and told of Arkansas' exciting vacation and recreation attractions within the next two months as employees of the Publicity and Parks Commission attend seven Sports and Travel Shows from coast to coast.

The Commission staff will have the opportunity to meet "face to face" with many thousands of persons who are now beginning to make their plans for this summer's vacation trips.

The first travel show in Kansas City will start the last of January; before the end of March the travel consultants from the state publicity department will have promoted the state's lakes, mountains, parks and resorts from San Francisco and Los Angeles to Miami, with visits to St. Louis, Memphis and Dallas in-between.

Original plans included the Chicago Boat, Travel and Outdoors Show, but the spectacular fire this past week at the McCormick Place Exhibition Hall canceled this show.

The Publicity and Parks will have a new travel booth for this year's shows. The self contained exhibit, designed and built by

Stitchin' Time

By JUDY LOVE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The roar of the '20s is still loud and clear. That daring decade opened up a wonderful world. We girls not only won the vote but also a new freedom in fashion that's more than ever with us today.

The spirit of the flapper era—fun, freedom and a great young look—is still the rage for those with a flair for fashion and a way with needles. A slimming, body-skimming shift, for instance. Knit it in no time—simple stockinette all the way. Belt is high, low or midway; the look is all now—with the daring and dash of those glittering days.

Back in the '20s, bobbed hair was in, and short hair styles had two offspring that became fashion staples of the '60s. The bobby pin was invented and wigs enjoyed a revival.

Hair wasn't the only thing that was cropped in those years. By 1925, hems had soared to knee length. For the first time in history, fashionable ladies dared to bare the leg. Then and now, fashions were young, straight and simple. Short, slip-on dresses gave the waistline a new position—always low on the hip for daytime and dancing.

Recently I studied several leading magazines of that day. It was fascinating to see that many could have been this month's issue. The uneven hemline was in during the '20s, and we saw it again this year from Dior. Surplice closings were and are in season, and asymmetrical styling and circular cuts both have bridged the years.

The quick-knitting stock-

FLAPPER FASHION for today. Knit this skimmer in no time. Even a beginner can turn out this smart looking sheath in Spinner-in's quick-knitting yarn.

nette stitch dress I'm featuring today is just as mod as it might have been flapper. You knit it with a clever, though simple, striped pattern set on the diagonal, just as flappers sought off-center patterns. An identical diagonal meets the eye coming or going! It is worked at the shoulder and hemline, both front and back. We've belted the dress at the waist for a blouse effect. It's also up to the minute with the belt tied at the hipline.

Incidentally, this great little shift is good for all you girls, right up to size 18. The sleek, simple lines are slimming and you belt it or not, whichever is more becoming. The Spinner-in yarn fashion designers offer another bonus in this design: Stop your knitting at any level—the design makes an unusual shell, torso top or long blouse.

For easy-to-follow directions, sizes 10-18, send 50c to Stitchin' Time, c/o your local paper, P.O. Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Ask for leaflet No. S106 and be sure to include your own name, address and zip code.

FUNNY BUSINESS - Vincent Price plots more hilarious evil-doing with some of his feminine robots in the background in scene from American International's "Dr. Goldfoot and the Girl Bombs." The spy farce, which also stars Fabian.

Gas Mantles
Incandescent mantles for gas lights were developed and introduced by Baron Carl Auer von Welsbach about the mid-1890s. First widely used in street lighting, these mantles produced from six to 10 times more illumination than earlier open-flame gas burners.

Eastern Earthquakes
Earthquakes do occur in the eastern United States. One earthquake which shook Charleston, S.C., with such severity on Aug. 31, 1886, that "pictures were found with faces to the wall," was felt in New York and Boston. The quake occurred 12 miles beneath Charleston.

Atop The World

...and riding high. Nice clothes, a good job, social eminence, a sizable bank account. Yes, and even membership in a church.

But just how high does he ride? How secure is life with him? Will it endure or will it be like the chaff which the wind drives away? Examine yourself. Do you worship your possessions or God? Do you glorify yourself or honor Him?

Do you take credit for your successes or count them as God's blessings? Unless you possess an abiding faith in God and confess that all good things come from Him... you are riding for the fall of your life. Truly, now, are you "atop the world?"

Better stop. Better think. Better make the necessary adjustments. See you in church.

One difference between a great player and a good player is that the really great player gives himself every little extra chance.

After this peroration, take a look at the North-South hands and plan your play in four spades against a king of hearts lead.

You might as well start by ducking a heart. Sometimes your opponents will shift suits, but this West did not. Now you are in your own hand and if you are only a good player you will lead a club to dummy's ace and return the nine spot. West will win with the king and eventually the combination of four clubs and four spades in the East hand will put you one down.

When Sidney Lazard of New Orleans held the South hand he gave himself that one little extra chance. He played the nine of clubs from dummy instead of the ace. From then on everything was duck soup. When he played dummy's ace of clubs later on he picked up West's king. Then all he had to do was to draw as many trumps as he could and tell East that he could have his high trump anytime he wanted it.

At this point we plan to forestall a lot of correspondence by pointing out that Lazard could win the first heart, take a diamond finesse and lead out dummy's ace of diamonds for a heart discard whether or not East ruffed in.

That play would have been a winner but it was an extra losing chance. It would cost the contract if East held the king of diamonds and would only gain one extra trick if it worked.

On the other hand the nine of clubs play stood to gain against lots of card combinations and could only lose in the event of a 5-1 club break.

Malvern Defeats Bobcats

By Larry Don Wright
Hope Star SportsWriter

The Malvern Leopards threw fence to complement a fast scoring effort and thumped the Hope Bobcats 63-54 last night at Malvern.

Led by the 26-point performance of 6-5 center John Corley, the Leopards held the lead the entire game though the Cats did threaten continuously. Malvern chalked up a quick 7 points in the first quarter before the Cats could tally.

This early advantage proved to be the difference through most of the game as the Cats trailed by a margin varying between 9 and 3 points. However, Hope was unable to trim it to 3 until the 4th quarter and then only momentarily.

The Bobcats will be playing at home tonight along with the senior girls when they go against the Waldo Bulldogs in Jones Field House. The boys event should be the highlight of the night since it will be the second meeting of the season between the two teams.

Back in November the Bulldogs pulled an 84-54 win over the Bobcats who were playing their first game of the year. The Cats have hit high gear since November which should make the game somewhat closer than the previous engagement.

Last night's loss was the 3rd Region 4AA setback for the Bobcats thus far in the first round robin. The second round will begin next Saturday after the Cats finished out the first on Friday night with the Camden Panthers.

Having trailed by only 5 points 34-29 at the half, the Cats met exceptionally dry scoring in the third quarter and fell behind by an additionally 5 going into the final period. The score read Malvern 48, Hope 39.

The Bobcats started the last period with their traditional 4th quarter rally scoring 6 straight points and pulling to within 3 points of the home team. This challenge fell short as the Leopards rose to stretch their advantage back to a comfortable 9 points. At this point with a minute and a half left to play Corley left the game with five fouls but it was already too late for the Cats.

Stan Parris led the Bobcats with 20 points while Luther Shaw had 14 and Danny Griffith tossed in 10. Stan Reyenga hit for 6 and Larry East for 4.

In the Junior high game Malvern registered another victory by holding back the Bobkittens 40-31.

Although Malvern led throughout the contest at several times it appeared the Kittens were about to overtake them. Hope trailed by 6-5 after one quarter and by 21-13 at halftime.

Despite serious Hope threats throughout the second half Malvern maintained the command and emerged the victor. Ronnie Brown was high point for the Kittens with 11 followed by Wayne Norvel who had 7, David Still sank 5, Tommy Adams 4, and Ronnie Massanelli and Glen Black 2 each.

Tonight's games in Jones Field House begin at 6:30 with the girls affair to be followed immediately by the senior boys game. Admission for students is 40 cents and for adults 75 cents.

Dynasty Grows at Yale

NEW HAVEN — (NEA) — Yale is building the same type of dynasty in swimming that UCLA is building in basketball.

Freshman swimming coach Jim Barton has one of the strongest teams in Yale history. A team that consists of an Olympic silver medalist and two prep-school All-Americans and six high school All-Americans.

Paul Moriarty, the varsity coach already has one of the main contenders for the national collegiate championship this year. And as he looks to the future he says this freshman group is superior to the freshmen who entered as the classes of 1965 and 1968.

The class of 1965 included Olympians Steve Clark, Ed Townsend, and Dave Lyons. Clark won three gold medals at Tokyo. The class of 1968 includes Don Schollander, the four-gold medal winner at Tokyo, and Bill Mettler.

Olympian John Nelson is the top name on the present Yale freshman team. He was runnerup in the 1,500-meter freestyle in Tokyo in 1964.

FAST-MOVING WAHOOS

BIMINI, Bahamas (AP) — Wahoons, one of the most abundant of Bahamas deep-water gamefish, are models of streamlined speed and have been clocked at speeds up to 40 miles per hour.

The all-tackle, world record wahoo weighed 149 pounds and was caught off Cat Cay in the Bahamas in 1962.

simulation of the launch that was to carry them aloft Feb. 21 for a two-week ride, Grissom, White and Chaffee were trapped in the spacecraft when it was swept by the flash fire.

No word came over the monitors, said Paul Haney, voice of the astronauts. Apparently, all three died instantly from heat or asphyxiation.

The emergency escape system was closed to them, because the entire craft was locked in a protective gantry.

Fire hot enough to ignite metal seared and blackened the spaceship. Bodies of the astronauts were badly charred.

"Three valiant young men have given their lives in the nation's service," said a shocked and saddened President Johnson. "We mourn this great loss and our hearts go out to their families."

Twenty-seven launch pad crewmen were overcome by smoke in futile efforts to get through to the astronauts. Two were hospitalized.

Not until 1:55 a.m., more than seven hours after the fire broke out, were the bodies removed from the smoldering space ship. They were taken to a casualty dispensary.

"They didn't have a chance," said a NASA spokesman. "It was instantaneous."

Until this sudden disaster, so far unexplained, Americans had

(Editor's Note: Jim Rynun, the greatest distance runner in the world and certainly in the history of the United States, is an odds-on favorite to be named the winner of the Sullivan Award as the outstanding amateur athlete of the last year, when the announcement is made in February. Young Jim, 19, is more than a running machine. He's also a sensitive college sophomore who has discovered another outlet for his virtuosity in the art of photography. Presented on this page are specimens of his work in photo journalism, a career which has begun to intrigue the young record-breaker. And the following story tells how it all started.)

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — (NEA) — The semifinalist in the Topeka city golf tournament last summer came into the scorer's tent after his round with a wry grin.

"I don't know," he said, "whether to sign my card or have the photographer sign it."

The photographer's signature might have meant more. He was a tall, lean teen-ager with a hungry face, shooting pictures for the Topeka Capital-Journal. Trouble was, he was better known than his subjects. From Kansas all the way to Kiev, Jim Rynun is recognized as the world record holder in the mile and the half-mile.

Kiev, as a matter of fact, is where it all started—Jim Rynun's auxiliary career as a sports photographer. It was the summer of 1965, and Jim, a graduating senior at Wichita East High School, was getting ready to go to that city behind the Iron Curtain for the U.S.-Russian track meet.

He had already broken the four-minute barrier in the mile run and defeated New Zealand's fabulous Peter Snell. Rich Clarkson, the photo director of the Capital-Journal and one of the country's noted sports photo journalists, had become his camera Boswell.

Jim, who carried a box camera to the Tokyo Olympics, started querying Rich about sequence jobs with zone of focus etc. The questions germinated an idea.

"Why don't you take this Nikon with you to Russia," suggested Rich to Rynun, "and see what you can come up with?" Clarkson sat down for two sessions with the youngster, instructing him on the mechanics of the camera and types of pictures to take.

"I didn't seriously consider that he'd come back with anything," admitted Clarkson, who arranged quick delivery from Russia anyhow. In three days he received eight rolls of color film and of the couple of hundred shots, only 10 frames weren't perfectly exposed.

"His pictures were well-composed, and with interesting people. He captured the Russians as they are. You know, it took a lot for Jim just to go up and click a shutter. He's a shy boy basically."

In July, 1965, the Capital-Journal printed a full page of Rynun's photos from Kiev, Russia, his first work to hit print. That fall, after he enrolled at Kansas, Clarkson hired him as a part-time photographer to help out on football weekends. Kansas opened with Texas Tech, and Clarkson set up a 600-millimeter lens on a tripod, instructing Rynun, "I just want you to watch this so nobody knocks it over. You can look through it if you want and maybe shoot a couple of pictures if you see anything that interests you."

After the game, he asked Jim, "You shoot any pictures?"

"Yep."

"How many?"

"Six rolls."

Included was a sequence series of the key play of the game, a fumble recovery, which the newspaper featured in its photo spread of the contest.

"From now on," instructed Clarkson, "don't watch the camera. Use it."

Will young Rynun, who has run the mile in 3:51.3, race into photo journalism with as much ardor?

"I hate to be a person who jumps into something," replied Jim thoughtfully. "I haven't been in it that long—only a year and a half. I want to wait and see for a while first."

A Rynun photo essay on three little kids washing a dog in the back yard with a garden hose won third place, picture story category, in the Kansas-Missouri press photography competition last year. He's been close up to the action of the AFL champion Kansas City Chiefs.

"It's very fascinating down there on the field," said Jim. "You have to push people out of the way to save them from being clobbered by some of the football players."

"The problem in being a photographer is that you have to be in the right place at the right time."

A problem for Rynun also is his amateur status, which poses ticklish problems when he gets paid for his work at athletic events. Only recently did he receive a favorable ruling from the Amateur Athletic Union on photographing track and field events. Yet he still has this bug about running. The age of 19 isn't quitting time.

"I want to keep competing," he said, "not so much for records, but to win. When I become tired of track, I want to stop."

And when might that be?

"I don't know. That's a long ways off."

The spacecraft and rocket

This is what is known as the calculated risk. Anyone who brings up the subject of income tax returns generally falls into one or another of the categories which embrace (1) people who remind you about your dental appointment tomorrow; (2) wrong numbers at 2 p.m.; (3) individuals who say "I told you so."

This is not so much a reminder as it is a warning. Taxpayers still have more than two months before filing deadline. The happy little thought we have to relay is that Internal Revenue Service this year intends to place every Form 1040 through the computer inquisition. Only a portion of individual returns have been run through the impersonal, computerized eye heretofore.

In years past IRS personnel have done what many citizens have considered an excruciatingly adequate job of checking returns. But human frailty, inevitably, has let some errors slip through. The computer - in a word - doesn't. -Birmingham (Ala.) News

The School Men Close A Closet

Sometimes we wonder about professional educators.

The Carnegie Corporation and the Ford Foundation have just offered to finance a study of two million pupils to determine their knowledge in reading, writing, literature, vocational education, fine arts, citizenship, social studies, mathematics, and science. On the face of it, such a survey would disclose how much kids are learning in the public schools and how long they retain what they learn.

The American Association of School Administrators, which represents most public school superintendents, turned the offer down. Such a study ignores, says the AASA, "the diversities of ethnic, racial, and economic composition of different communities and the degree of state support each receives. It would result in pressures on schools to teach for the tests. It would add little new information."

Maybe so. It sounds to us like the educators are scared. -Ashville (N. C.) Citizen

Wow!

The American Psychiatric Association recently received the startling results of a 2-year scientific study of American drinking habits. Using detailed interviews with a carefully chosen opinion sample, the scientists then subjected the findings to the latest method of data evaluation. After extensive study, they concluded:

— Most Americans are neither teetotalers nor souses.

— There are many more who abstain entirely than who drink to excess.

— Finally declared the spokesman, survey results indicate that women are less predictable than men.

In 3 Years War Cost Up 57 Times

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — When Gen. William C. Westmoreland arrived on the Vietnam scene three years ago today the war still was a comparatively small conflict costing a million dollars a day. Fewer than 1,000 American casualties had been taken.

Today the war is 57 times more costly per day and American casualties have increased 50-fold.

But the three years of heavy responsibility have changed little the outward appearance of American strategy here.

Westmoreland seems to be thriving as the enlarging conflict increases the demands on him. He is far more outspoken. When he arrived, he was reputed to be a man who slavishly followed administration policy. Nowadays he seems to be making it.

At 53, his chiseled features are a little leaner and they freeze more often into a mask of reprimand for recalcitrant field commanders these days than they used to, his aides say.

Hog-Killing Time in Arkansas: 1st 4-Color Picture From 2nd Berkey Machine in U.S.

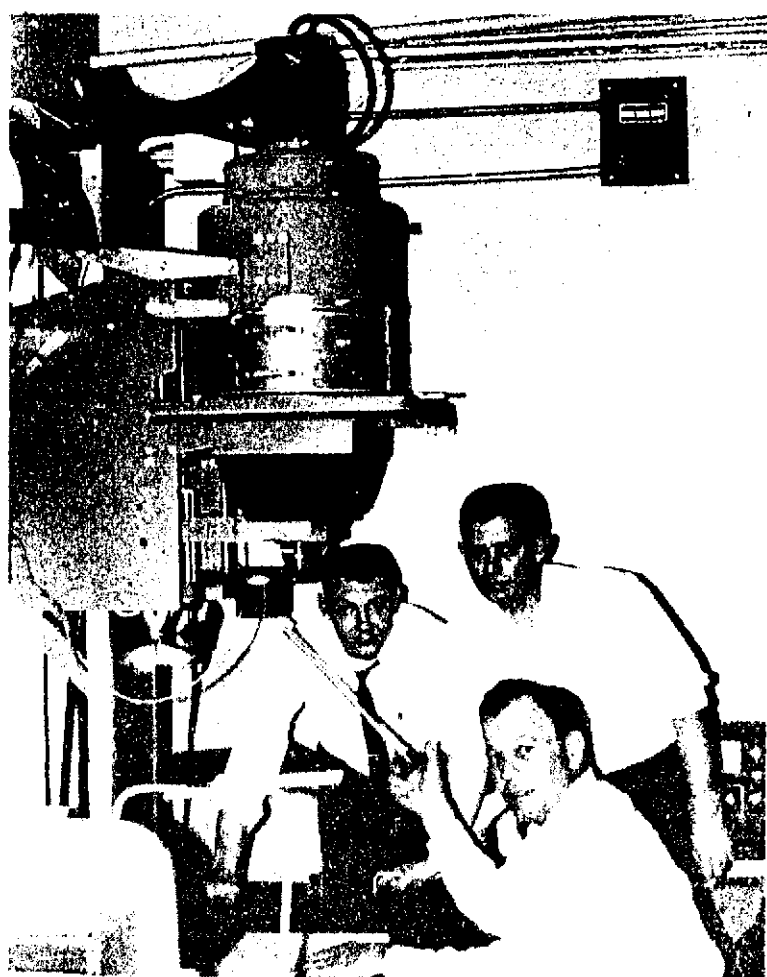

Every year on Dec. 10 the Goodlett plantation, on State Highway No. 4 between Ozan and Nashville, is the scene of a vanishing drama—the farm community hog-kill.

The Star has published several black-and-white pictures of the event in past years, but on Dec. 10, 1965, we made a shot that was kept in our files until today—for it was in Ektachrome color. Only now can we print process color—and to Sloman Goodlett and his family and farm staff goes the honor of being in the No. 1 full-color picture ever printed in this section.

The Berkey Machine

Photographed in the news darkroom last Tuesday, Jan. 24, is the The Star's new Berkey Direct Screen System machine—second in the United States—which made the four separation negatives that produced today's initial process color picture.

It is a giant enlarger (8x10-inch) coupled to a computer visible at lower right. This automated color machine was announced last October, was bought by The Star in November, and was delivered in December. It is a Norwegian invention, the first one, a smaller 4x5 model, going to a suburban paper on Long Island. The Star bought the second one—first of the big 8x10 model—and one just like ours, the No. 3 machine went to the Chicago Tribune.

Not only is this the first full-color newspaper picture in southwest Arkansas, it is the first in the United States to come from the large model (8x10) Berkey automatic color machine, a Norwegian invention introduced and manufactured in America only four months ago. The first machine, the smaller 4x5 model, was bought by the Cowles family (Mes Moines Register & Tribune), for their new suburban paper the Suffolk Sun, Deer Park, Long Island; Hope Star bought the first 8x10 model, an order duplicated by the Chicago Tribune, the No. 3 purchaser.

The Berkey automated color machine is expected to revolutionize color picture printing for newspapers, cutting the time for making a set of separation negatives from days to one hour or less, and slashing costs to a fraction of the present level with handcraftsmen.

Thinks Robot Will Do All Housekeeping

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON AP — Prof. Thring is developing the darndest thing — such as a robot that will revolutionize housekeeping by doing every tedious chore from ironing clothes to cleaning the oven.

"Within 10 years time," says the distinguished engineer, "we could have a robot that will completely eliminate all routine operations around the house and remove the drudgery from human life."

Specifically, Thring's thing would:

Lay and clear dining room tables.

Make beds and change sheets.

Dust, sweep and clean up.

Wash clothes and iron them.

Scrub floors, baths, sinks and stoves.

Prepare food — but not cook it.

Thring's thing would be taught to remember the correct place for furniture. And after performing the household tasks, it would fold itself up, put itself away and recharge its own batteries.

Would Delay Board Action

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Hayes McClerkin of Texarkana asked that action be deferred on his bill creating a management consultant board after opposition developed in the Arkansas House today.

The board would set up a 12-member commission financed by a $50,000 appropriation in the next biennium that would have authority to hire time study experts to make recommendations for more efficient operation of government.

Rep. John Bethel of Des Arc and Jack Oakes of Augusta, however, thought the commission might duplicate the functions of the Legislative Council and the Legislative audit. Bethel said he also thought the wording of the bill would give the board unlimited authority.

Cab Owners Get Tax Reductions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House passed today a Senate bill giving taxi owners a sizeable reduction in the cost of their license plates, now $75. The measure makes the cost correspond to the fee for privately owned cars.

No Substitute for Blood and Hempstead County Needs Yours

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

There is no substitute for blood.

Although there are derivatives, such as gamma globulin and fresh frozen plasma, all are still blood. We read and hear of research efforts to make an artificial heart, but it will still pump the same old stuff — blood.

If we are in agreement on this point now, let's move a step further. Since there is no substitute for blood, we, as sensible human beings, should make sure that we have a ready supply to tap in case an emergency arises.

That's where the Red Cross Blood Bank Program applies to us. It is, literally, our life's blood.

We in Hempstead County have been a part of this program for several years now, but it operates on a volunteer blood replacement system that assures a continuous blood supply when needed. And the people of this county have not done their part. We have taken lots but given little, and as a result this Life's Blood will be taken away from us, if . . .

Yes, there's an if. If we ignore the pleas of our neighbors and friends now, we may be in need of blood for ourselves or our loved ones in the future but none will be available quickly. Accidents and illness aren't always confined to the other fellow.

Did we say pleas of neighbors and friends? That's right. On KXAR today from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. members of nine civic organizations are asking the people of Hempstead County to pledge to give blood when the bloodmobile is in Hope next Tuesday, 2-7 p.m., and Wednesday, 7 a.m.-12 noon.

Any person over 18 and under 60 years of age, in good health, may give blood. Those who are 18-21 are accepted only with the written consent of their parents or guardian, unless they are married or in the Armed Forces. Each donor is asked to give a medical history and to answer a few questions regarding previous illnesses. Temperature, pulse, and blood pressure are also checked by a registered nurse. The doctor in charge screens persons whose health might possibly prevent them from giving blood. For their own protection, such individuals will not be permitted to give blood.

It takes 5 to 7 minutes to give blood; about an hour should be allowed for examination, blood donation, and having refreshments in the canteen. Normal work activities may be resumed immediately after giving blood. Donations may be made every 8 weeks, but not more than 5 times a year.

Under this program the total blood requirements for you and your family will be met. Blood derivatives are also available. Families include the individual donor, or member of a donor group, spouse, children under 18, children over 18 who are unable to be blood donors, and parents and grandparents of either spouse.

Total blood needs of all persons eligible under the Red Cross blood program will be met anywhere in the U.S. or Canada under an agreement between the American National Red Cross and the Canadian Transfusion Society. The cost for this blood is much less when obtained through the system discussed.

It is truly a Bank, and you, the Depositor, will reap the benefits, if not for yourself, at least, for someone you know. The only difference in this Bank and the more conventional kind is the color of the currency. It isn't silver or gold, or even crisp green. It's blood red.

Pledge to give your blood on the KXAR Radiothon today. Then next week, give when the Red Cross Bloodmobile is at the Red River Vocational Technical School Tuesday, January 31, 2-7 p.m., and Wednesday, February 1, 7-12 a.m. Mrs. Roy Taylor is county chairman of the blood program, and Dr. Lowell Harris is chairman of the Hempstead County Red Cross.

AF Removes Official for Talking

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has removed the commandant of its top school, the Air War College, for privately discussing occasional bomb shortages in Vietnam, sources said today.

The Pentagon confirmed that Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Page, commandant of the Air War College in Alabama since last August, has been reassigned to a combat command in Okinawa.

A spokesman said Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force chief of staff, acted "on his own volition" and ordered the reassignment.

No reason was given for the action. The Pentagon said the matter was an "internal Air Force move."

One source, however, said Page had come under criticism for speaking of some shortages of air munitions during a three-day secret seminar for Air Force Reserve officers last December at the college.

In such sessions, all lectures and discussions by speakers are classified, not to be written down, and to be held in complete confidence.

An officer, who asked not to be named, said a "misunderstanding" arose over comments the general made at the session.

He would not discuss the matter further but said other factors could be involved in the reassignment.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in the past has stated that supplies of bombs and ammunition are adequate to meet combat needs. McNamara has been quick to put down reports of any shortages.

Pentagon sources were unable to say whether authority higher than McConnell had been involved in the reassignment decision.

The New York Times in reporting the Air Force action mentioned discussion by Page of administration security policies as well as bomb supplies.

Accusations Hurlled by Israel, Syria

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel and Syria, with their first direct talks in eight years in recess until Sunday, accused each other today of hostile activity.

Israel complained to the Syrian-Israeli Mixed Armistice Commission that one of its patrols uncovered an antivehicle mine near Shaar Yashuv village about 1,700 feet from the Syrian border.

An Israeli spokesman said investigators found footprints leading from the spot to the Syrian border.

In Damascus, Syrian Information Minister Mohammed Zoubi called on the United Nations and the Mixed Armistice Commission to end "Israel's usurpation of demilitarized zones."

The minister asserted that Israel had "usurped basic areas" in the zone since 1948 without challenge from the commission.

He added that it was imperative that such actions stop "if the commission and the United Nations are truly seeking to create a peaceful atmosphere for cultivation of both sides of the armistice zone."

The commission met this week for the first time since 1959. It will hold its second round of talks Sunday on farming rights in the demilitarized zones along the 47-mile border where a series of incidents have threatened war.

24 Killed in Philippines

MANILA (AP) — At least 24 villagers have been killed in a landslide touched off by torrential rains in the central Philippines, delayed newspaper reports from Leyte said today.

Three Apollo Astronauts Are Killed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — In a sudden, searing flash of fire, tragedy has cut deeply into America's man-to-the-moon dream — quickly and silently killing the first three of the Apollo astronauts.

Not a word was spoken as explosive flames fed by pure oxygen ripped Friday night through the first of the Apollo moonships, taking the lives of two veterans and a rookie headed for his first journey in space.

The holocaust on Pad 34, which set the U.S. moon program back perhaps for months, claimed these victims:

Virgil I. Grissom, 40, hero of the Mercury and Gemini programs that blazed the first American trails in space.

Edward H. White II, 36, first U.S. astronaut to leave his ship and become a human satellite.

Roger B. Chaffee, 31, a fledgling spaceman looking forward to his first mission.

Some day, every spaceman knew in his heart, it was bound to happen. It was too much to hope that the perilous route to the moon could be traveled without loss of life.

But when it came, they thought, it would be in the far reaches of space, not this way.

Liu Stood by as Guards Seized Wife

BE L'GR'ADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — President Liu Shao-chi was present when his wife was abducted by Red Guards at a hospital Jan. 6 and forced to confess her "errors," Tanjug news agency reported today.

Mihailo Saranovic, Tanjug's Peking correspondent, offered no clue as to why Liu himself was not seized. He said Mrs. Liu told the president to return home and she would stay with the Red Guards, the teen-agers helping Mao Tse-tung in his power struggle with Liu.

By this account, Liu was still living in the fashionable Peking district of Ju Nan-hai at that time.

Quoting a Red Guards poster, Saranovic confirmed previous reports that the Red Guards lured Mrs. Liu to the hospital by a telephone call saying her daughter, Liu Pin-pin had been hurt in a traffic accident.

Saranovic gave this account:

The daughter was being held at the Pedagogic Institute where she was forced into self-criticism before students and professors. A second daughter, Liu Tin-tin, was forced by Red Guards to rebel against her parents and go along with the plot to capture her mother.

Smith Seeks Friends on Outside

SALISBURY, Rhodesia, (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith made a three-point bid in Parliament today to win friends in the outside world.

He said an independence commission will be appointed to recommend a new constitution for the country, press censorship will be dropped if an acceptable alternative can be found, and an impartial tribunal will be established to investigate cases of detained foes of the regime.

Members of the independence commission are being selected and its terms of reference are being worked out, he told Parliament, adding that the country needs a new constitution. "We have no option but to go ahead and do the job ourselves," he said.

Smith declared Britain and other nations had used Rhodesia's censorship and detention regulations as propaganda weapons to bolster claims that Rhodesia is a police state. He said such claims were "absolutely untrue."
